Work for Art Fact Sheet 2010-11

History

- The Regional Arts & Culture Council (RACC) piloted Work for Art in 2004 with seed funding from the Meyer Memorial Trust, the M.J. Murdock Charitable Trust, and the Oregon Cultural Trust. Work for Art was fully launched in 2006-07.
- During the past four years, more than 65 different companies and their employees have raised nearly $2.4 million for arts and culture through this program.

Benefits

- Your gift to Work for Art supports more than 80 arts organizations based in Clackamas, Multnomah, and Washington Counties that serve the region and the state. Alternately, you may choose to direct your contribution to support arts education programs that provide opportunities for students and teachers in both urban and rural schools based in the tri-county region. Or, you may designate your gift to a specific 501(c)(3) tri-county arts and culture organization of your choice. For every dollar contributed, the public matching fund will make a matching contribution to Work for Art.
- A full 100% of all donations are passed on to regional arts organizations. The Regional Arts & Culture Council underwrites the administrative costs of the Work for Art program.
- When you give $60 ($5 per month) or more, you will receive an Arts Card in appreciation of your gift. This provides you with a full year of 2-for-1 tickets and other discounts at many of our community's leading arts events.
- When you give to Work for Art, a matching challenge fund (from the City of Portland and Clackamas, Multnomah, and Washington Counties) will match your gift to support the community's arts and culture organizations through Work for Art. You give a dollar, they give a dollar. Just like that, the power of your donation is doubled.

For example:

If you give	the matching challenge fund will give	then, arts organizations will receive:
$60	$60	$120
$150	$150	$300
$500	$500	$1000
